Yes Master: Part Two (BDSM Erotic Romance)

This pattern of PIL afferent connections is similar to that described for neuronal inputs to the parvicellular subparafascicular nucleus in male rats, where the ascending inputs were implicated in the processing of sensory information related to mating and ejaculation Because the PIL includes the parvicellular subparafascicular nucleus, located ventromedial to the medial geniculate body, our results confirm previous data on the afferent neuronal connections of the PIL and expand the results to mother rats with injection sites verified by TIP39 double labeling. The page you are attempting to access contains content that is not intended for underage readers.
